Carmel schools will reopen for the fall semester on Tuesday. But for the first week, at least, the kids will feel little pain: Monday is Labor Day, and Thursday, Admission Day, will be a holiday as well.

At Carmel High School, pre-registration has been going full blast all week and figures indicate a substantial increase over last year's enrollment. As of Wednesday, 290 students were registered, with the total expected to reach 310 by Tuesday's opening. Last year's total enrollment was 274.

Two new teachers have joined the high school faculty this year: Mrs. Phyllis J. Crockett (Phyllis Jones) and Charles Moody. Mrs. Crockett, who will replace Hilda Morlang as girls' P.E. instructor, is the first graduate of the high school to return as a teacher; she was graduated with the class of '43, took her A.B. at San Jose State and her M.S. at Wellesley, and has since taught in the east and at the University of Washington. Her husband is with the Army overseas. Mr. Moody, a bachelor from Burlingame and a U.C. graduate, will teach social studies and history, as well as Miss Enid Larson's life science classes while the latter is on sabbatical.

Returning to the high school as English teacher after a two-year stint at Sunset School is Raymond Geer, who will inaugurate a new

It should be remembered that Carmel was nothing but a wilderness only half a century ago. It must have been superlatively beautiful for as far as I know there has never been anything to compare with the combination of trees, shrubs, vistas of valley and hills on one side and the sea pounding the rocks and beach on the other.

Try to imagine wandering down Ocean Avenue in and around clumps of chummy pines and oaks, deer watching at a distance, a fox skittering around a nearby boulder, squirrels chattering from the trees and possibly Indians skulking in the background.—The first few white men would see all these things and they would love the land but they would also want to destroy it. Some one would want to make a road, then it would become a street, then some one would begin to sell supplies, then lots would be staked out, all of which would bring more people and the wild things would retreat. After a few years many would forget about the wilderness and be intent only on making money. To accomplish this there must be more people, homes, roads and tourists all of which would be far more important than trees, shrubs, deer and birds.

I wonder just what James Frank Devendorf thought that time he looked across from Pebble Beach and saw the white sands and green forest in the distance and when he traveled over it on horseback and named it Carmel. Some one of you high school stu-

Business Assn., Realtors Protest No-Parking Ord.

The Carmel Board of Realtors and the Carmel Business Association joined the Monterey Peninsula Hotel Association this week in protesting a proposed ordinance that would prohibit parking on Carmel streets between the hours of 2:00 and 5:00 o'clock in the morning.

Saloon Doors On School House Won't Do, Even In Carmel

The saloon doors have come down but the play will go on at Sunset School Auditorium tonight.

This is the third week end for the home-grown musical western, Silver Star, book and lyrics by Ric Masten and music by Don Adams. Ric, a painter as well as a writer, created the set, too. He also made a realistic saloon entrance, complete with red swing doors and installed it in the archway entry to Sunset Auditorium.

Saloon doors, red at that, hanging on a schoolhouse were not thought appropriate by some of Carmel's more serious minded citizens. Protests have been coming in to the school authorities. The pressure increased this week until School Superintendent Stuart Mitchell notified the Carmel Kiwanis, who underwrite the show, that the doors must go. They went Wednesday evening.

Thomas-Sons Publish Glenn Clairmonte's Biography Of Sutter

John Sutter of California, a biography which was in preparation while Glenn Clairmonte lived in Carmel, will be placed in the book stores September 20 by the publishers, Thomas Nelson and Sons.

Mrs. Clairmonte coached writers, taught at Monterey College, conducted a adult school writing courses here, and was social editor for the Pine Cone during her stay in Carmel. Several years ago she moved to New York.

Her story of Sutter, aimed at the junior high reader group, is objective, full of color and action. She has skillfully conveyed a warm and living picture of Sutter and recreated vividly the ever-fresh and exciting story of Marshall's discovery at Sutter's mill and the first world invasion of California.

People who plan to buy the book to send to a nephew or niece for Christmas, should get it in advance to allow time to read it themselves. It is very well done and worthy of adult attention.

The momentum of Sutter has carried Mrs. Clairmonte into a biography of Calamity Jane for which she already has a contract with the publishers.

THEATRE REVIEWS ON FEATURE PAGE

Presidio Players' production of See How They Run, at the Tin Barn, is reviewed by Rosalind Wall on the Feature Page of this issue. Kippy Stuart reviews the new play at the Wharf, The Male Animal, on the same page.

The ordinance is scheduled for consideration at the regular council meeting Wednesday night, 7:45 o'clock in city hall.

The realtors and the business association have signed a joint letter to the council requesting that action be postponed at Wednesday night's meeting and the council call a special hearing when representatives of the three groups can present their case.

The purpose of the ordinance is to clear the streets so that the new mechanical street sweeper, which arrived Tuesday, can operate efficiently.

Last week the Monterey Peninsula Hotelmen's Association, representing the Carmel hotelmen, addressed a letter to the city council protesting that the ordinance would put them under great hardship since there are practically no off-street parking facilities obtainable. The Association said that the individual hotel and apartment owners would no doubt assume responsibility for keeping the streets clean in the vicinity of their property so the sweeper would not have to have access to those areas.

Hotelmen, writing independently the council, have offered to undertake policing duty of their streets and gutters.

Circle Theatre Opens Tonight With "Beautiful People"

The Golden Bough Players Circle will re-open tonight for the fall and winter season with William Saroyan's distinguished play, The Beautiful People, under the direction of Bee Crowe. The cast includes Don Gunderson, Myrtle-rose Craig, Mason Wright, Edwin Craig, Gene Eplett, Eleanor Mott, Douglas MacFarlane, Peter Hyde and Tom Seguitz.

Sold out for tonight's opening, the play will continue through this Labor Day weekend, including Monday, September 6. Tickets are still available for tomorrow, Sunday and Monday nights.

The Beautiful People is scheduled for the three succeeding September weekends, Friday through Sunday.

The play had a six months' run on Broadway, gaining both critical and popular approval. In form it is decidedly "offbeat" and unconventional and is perfectly suited to in-the-round production.

According to leading New York critic John Mason Brown, Saroyan as a playwright is "unstoppable, unpredictable and undisciplined", but the "most original and unfettered talent our theatre has known since Eugene O'Neill".

FOOTBALL ACTION STARTS AT CARMEL HIGH TUESDAY

A football squad about 60 strong will check out uniforms at Carmel High School next Tuesday afternoon to prepare for a tough eight-game schedule which starts on September 25 when the Gustine Indians invade the bailiwick of the Padres. Nine returning varsity lettermen plus a fine batch of lightweights who are moving up to the varsity should give the Padres a pretty good hand in CCAL play this season. Back for another season of varsity play are Ted Ledbetter, Jon Menand, Millard Martin, Merle Pitman, Greg Danelz, Lee McGuckin, Bill Powell, Jim Kurtz, and Jim Rowe. Moving up from the junior-varsity squad which lost only one game last season are linemen Gene Gawn, Bob Michela, John Thompson, Pat Erwin, Dick Jennings, George Wightman, Bob Martin, and Dave Castagna; backs West Whittaker, Bill McCormack, Kyrk Reid, Dick Ogden, Bob Alvarez, Craig Chapman, and Mike Mosolf.

A look around the B division of the CCAL shows all the schools with potent material capable of making a run for the championship. Top hand seems to be held by Pacific Grove, defending champs, who boasts two all-league backs on a veteran squad which went undefeated last season. Hollister, always a strong threat for the title, has a galaxy of speed backs capable of going all the way at any time. Coach Tom Burt at Gilroy will field an all-veteran team which could go all the way. Gonzales, with the two fastest sprinters in the league moving the leather from the halfback spots will be a dangerous threat to the big schools. Over at King City, a new coach and a wealth of fine football material should see the Mustangs right in the thick of the race for top honors.

P.B. TENNIS JAMBOREE

Pebble Beach Tennis Club will have its Labor Day Tennis Jamboree this weekend, with mixed doubles and men's doubles slated to begin at 2:00 o'clock on Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

PINE CONE MAKES GOOD SHOWING IN TOURNAMENT

Although they bowed out of tournament action after three games, the Pine Cone softball team won many friends at the Oakland tournament by their hustling style of play and excellent sportsmanship. The Coners dropped their first game to a strong Chico aggregation, came back to upset the Willi Oilers in their second outing, and were edged by Sebastopol in a 4-3 thriller.

Big night for the printers was their 3-2 victory over the potent San Jose Oilers. Recognized as the top team in the San Jose area, the Oilers were supposed to whip the Coners with plenty to spare. However, Nicholson's upstarts failed to read the Oiler press clippings and completely dominated the play to register a startling upset. Husky Jim Morton hurled the victory over San Jose, allowing only four hits and striking out seven Oiler swingers. Besides pitching a highly effective game, the versatile Morton blasted a scorching single to drive in a pair of markers. Bobby Updike, a popular favorite with the tournament fans, supplied the big bat power for the Coners, slashing out a pair of doubles in three trips to the plate. Little Bob also starred in the field as he pulled off the outstanding fielding play of the entire tourney. From his third base position, Updike pounced on an Oiler bunt, outtraced the batter to first base, and tagged out the runner who was on first to register an unassisted double play.

Bubbling with confidence after their satisfying win over San Jose, the Coners took the field against Sebastopol Saturday night and were edged, 4 to 3, in a fast well-played contest. All locked up at 3-3 going into the final heat, the Coners were pushed out of the tournament as the Sebastopol gang rallied to break the deadlock and move up a notch on the tournament ladder.

Playing for the Pine Cone in the three tournament games were: Art Harber, Jim Morton, Ky Miyamoto, Henry Meyers, Walt Frey, Bob Updike, Marty Hansen, Gene Vandervort, Dick Weer, Butch Laugenour and Don Canham.

FORT ORD GRIDDERS HOST OAKLAND CLUB SUNDAY

Peninsula football fans who have been craving some action on the gridiron will be traveling to Fort Ord Sunday afternoon where the Warriors open the local grid season against the Oakland Athletic Club. Back in their own league again after absorbing damaging licks from the Los Angeles Rams and the San Francisco 49'ers, Bill Abbey's Warriors will be out to get on the victory trail which they knew so well last season. Not the powerful football machine they were last year, the Warriors still have enough talented material to make a good showing against the service and club opposition on their schedule. The big three from last year, Ollie Matson, Don Heinrich, and Dave Mann are missing from the lineup and the other service teams are feeling real fine about it. Taking

DANCING WATERS

The Needler

By Beth

Dug out one of my favorite books yesterday, a volume called The Household Ladies Cyclopaedia. It covers everything from how to construct an aeolian harp to a cure for hydrophobia, and in looking through it I read a chapter on the Care of the Hair which I feel should be passed on to you. "It is strange that women have been willing to tamper with this crown of woman's glory, washing it with all sorts of poisons, taking the life out of it with withering applications, torturing it with pins, hot irons and strings; indeed, some have gone so far as to use liquor to make the hair curl, which contained both quicksilver and aquafortis, and which did make it curl simply by shrinking it up as would the flame of a candle, producing total loss of hair, paralysis and sometimes even idiocy." I still sometimes wonder which twin had the Toni.

We are again reminded that the Blood Bank will operate in Carmel on September 16, so save up lots of red corpuscles or whatever it is that is necessary and march down on that day. Whole blood and plasma are still desperately needed.

Dear Tourists: We love you, we love you, we love you. We are happy to share with you the beauties of our Peninsula. But please, please don't clutter up our beaches and forests with picnic leavings. Along Scenic Drive, for instance, there are receptacles for depositing trash. Be real good kids and use them.

Ex-Carmelite Bob Goodwin has been in town this week looking up old friends. He is now living in Southern California where he is an engineer with an architect-tural and construction firm. Bob was in Honolulu on December 7, 1941, and it is happened that he had an early morning tennis date. He and the others were lobbing the ball back and forth when they heard the planes and the ack-ack. They thought, of course, that it was all part of war maneuvers until a shell landed near the tennis courts and exploded. One of the players looked at it in disgust and uttered the classic understatement of our times. "Propaganda!" he muttered.

Received a communication this week which reads as follows: "Dear Needler: Read your bit about leftover lid. Why not place an ad for a leftover pot? Isn't there a saying about a lid for every pot or vice versa, or something to that effect? Signed: A Casserole-Cook. P.S. Would appreciate you publishing the recipe for that delicious chicken."

Dear Casserole-Cook: Well, first you take a pottery casserole which has a crack in it. Take it away from there.

The Pine Cone received another letter this week with a suggestion in it that a new club be formed with a membership exclusively of widows, widowers and divorcees. On account of they get lonely. A Carmel branch of the Lonely Hearts Club. Sounds like a right fine idea. Then one could be started with only single people. Another one with only grandmothers. And another one with only people with egg on their chins. The latter is the one where most of us would show up, I'm afraid.

Draper Killed By Accidental Shot

Roscoe Le Roy Draper, 27, was found dead Monday evening in his downtown apartment, having apparently killed himself accidentally while preparing to clean a .22 target pistol.

Police estimated that the accident occurred sometime Sunday night or early Monday morning. The body was discovered Monday evening in the kitchen of Draper's upstairs apartment, located on the west side of Dolores Street between Ocean and Seventh, by Elizabeth Adams of Pacific Grove, who notified police.

Gun cleaning equipment was found on a table near the body. By the ramrod was an instruction sheet which said in part that the gun should be fired to ascertain whether or not a cartridge was in the chamber. The clip had been removed.

Draper, a native of Ogden, Utah, was a salesman for a pharmaceutical company. He is survived by his parents, Dr. and Mrs. R. L. Draper of Ogden, and a brother and sister. Funeral services will be held in Ogden.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

On returning from a month's trip to the Pacific Northwest where the defense of Mt. Rainier National Park was the main conservation issue involved, it was heartening to learn that Congress finally adjourned without any decisive action on the Colorado River Storage Project which included the controversial Echo Park Dam in Dinosaur National Monument. This was one of the hottest conservation battles in recent years and the outcome is considered a smashing victory for the conservation forces.

I was present at the final meeting of the House Committee on the Interior in May when by questionable parliamentary methods the bill was finally approved by the narrow margin of 13 to 12. I reported this in detail in one of these columns not long afterward. After the bill was sent to the Rules Committee, it reposed there for the rest of the congressional session. Because of the close committee vote congressional leaders were reluctant to bring it out on the floor of the House. Speaker of the House Joe Martin stated publicly just a short time ago that the public opposition to the invasion of Dinosaur National Monument was the main reason for allowing the bill to die in the Rules Committee.

In the Senate there was a different story. Here Utah and New Mexico have the same number of votes as New York and Illinois; consequently the Reclamation Bloc, so-called, is very strong. The bill was passed by the Committee on the Interior in July with only one dissenting vote, that of Senator Kuchel of California. Conservationists are very grateful to him for his stand.

An effort was made to get a Senate vote on the bill during the closing hours of Congress. It was debated briefly and Senator Kennedy of Massachusetts emerged as the main champion of the conservationists in the fight. However, the House adjourned before the Senate could act and the proponents of the bill then admitted defeat.

A new bill of some kind will undoubtedly be introduced at the forthcoming session of Congress. Just what form it will take is at present uncertain. With no election coming up next year much of the pressure will be off and it is more than likely that the bill will be allowed to die in committee. Everything considered, this has been a notable victory for the in-

Old Time Thriller At First Theatre

The Fatal Wedding, current smash-hit at California's First Theatre, Monterey, is rounding out its summer run, with but five performances left for the melodrama. There will be no performance tonight, but tomorrow night, September 4, Sunday and Monday nights, the 5th and 6th, the theatre will be running. This change of schedule is in deference to the Labor Day Holiday, and Admission Day.

The old-time thriller will play again on Thursday and Friday night of next week, September 9, 10, giving its closing performance on Saturday night, September 11. On the following Friday night, September 17, The Ghost of the Ozarks will open. Both shows are directed by Rhea Denny and produced by Dene Denny and Hazel Watrous.

TRYOUTS FOR PAL JOEY AT WHARF THEATRE SATURDAY

Wharf Players will hold auditions tomorrow afternoon at 4:00 o'clock for singing, dancing and straight roles in the forthcoming production of Pal Joey. Tryouts will be held in the Wharf Theatre on Fishermen's Wharf. Tom Brock will direct the show.

Editor's

Column

Box 362, Carmel
Editor of the Pine Cone:

I apologize to the people of Carmel in reference to my statement of August 21, saying they were unfriendly. After all, one woman's remarks do not necessarily take in the whole of Carmel people and I have met four charming ladies, a Mrs. Alice Hamilton, a Mrs. Van Sant, a Mrs. Sargent and Mrs. Bee Mosier, and I am sorry to have made that statement. I hope the people of Carmel will forgive me. So I will lower my boot straps and hope to become one of the people in Carmel.

Sincerely,
Mrs. E. R. Smith

A Pine Cone reader in San Luis Obispo writes us, "I think Carmel has a bear by the tail with its new street sweeper and something to keep them arguing about for a while."

Then there's Shirley Bryant, of Five Steps, 5 Linden Gardens, Tunbridge Wells, Kent, England, who read about Carmel in the National Geographic and forthwith addressed a letter to "The Mayor, Carmel, near Monterey, California, U. S. A."

We could tell Shirley that, over here, Monterey is considered to be near Carmel, but we'll let it pass.

Shirley says she's a young writer and a "keen" musician, and she wonders if it would be possible for her to correspond with young writers and musicians in Carmel.

"It would be fine if we could exchange ideas and in the case of young writers, I could give them helpful advice re. English markets."

She says she is in her twenties but would be happy to write to people of any age who are genuinely interested in The Arts.

If anybody wants to write to Shirley, her address is above. She promises, "Should any of the writers and musicians I hope to contact come over to England, I shall be only too pleased to entertain them, show them around, and help them in any way I can. Tunbridge Wells is a very attractive little town 30 miles from London."

Shirley's letter reminds us that we haven't got around yet to asking somebody if England has broken off diplomatic relations with the United States. There seem to be untold difficulties about getting money out of there and into here. We have three Pine Cone "subscribers" in England. One sends her check to a friend in Canada, who does something about it, and sends her personal check to us. Another, who is a painter who has done the murals for some public buildings in one of the towns over there, pays for his Pine Cone by painting us a beautifully conceived watercolor Christmas card each year. Another, a retired industrialist, who would know how to cope with ordinary monetary complications, writes, "It's getting too much trouble to pay for the Pine Cone, but please keep sending it. I'll write a piece for you from time to time in payment." That's a satisfactory arrangement, but where's the "piece"?

Trials Tuesday For Circle Theatre Play

The second play-in-the-round of the new season in the Golden Bough Players Circle, the comedy-drama, Autumn Crocus, is now open for casting, according to Edward Kuster, production director of the theatre. The play will be under the stage direction of Don Gunderson, whose recent School for Scandal at the Wharf Theatre in Monterey was highly praised.

Readings for Autumn Crocus will be held at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday evening in the Players Circle, at the rear of Golden Bough Playhouse. As the locale of the play is an inn, high in the Swiss Alps,

Petty, Victim Of Brain Injury, Shoots Self With Shotgun

Thomas George Petty killed himself with a shotgun last Thursday evening, shortly after he had attacked with an ax and seriously injured his 14 year old daughter, Patricia.

The girl is reported in good condition at Peninsula Hospital, and recovering satisfactorily after surgery and transfusions necessitated by her injuries. She received deep wounds on her arms and the back of her head.

The assault and suicide occurred shortly before 8:00 o'clock Thursday evening. Petty had entered his home at Lorca Lane and Junipero at approximately 7:45 to find his daughter packing with the intention of going away to join her mother, Faye Petty, who had moved away week before last and was staying with friends here. Petty then attacked his daughter with the ax. The injured girl ran out into the yard, where a neighbor, Leslie Coggins, came to her aid, phoned for the ambulance and notified police.

Patricia explained to Coggins and his wife what had happened and added that her father had threatened to kill himself. Petty, meanwhile, had gone into his woodworking shop located in the Petty Apartments at Third and Junipero. When police arrived at the scene, the shop was still filled with smoke from the shotgun blast and Petty was dead.

Subsequent investigation revealed that Petty, a hot-rod and stock car driver, had received a severe head injury about three months ago at Salinas, when his car overturned during a hardtop race.

Petty, 35, was the son of Mrs. Lillian Petty, owner of the Petty Apartments, and the late Thomas Petty. He was born in Spokane, Washington, April 24, 1917, and came to Carmel with his family at the age of 13. He attended schools here, and was a veteran of World War II. In addition to his wife, Faye, and daughter Patricia, he leaves three other children: Thomas, Jr., Donald and Barbara, all of Carmel. He also leaves a brother, Albert Petty of Los Gatos, and eight sisters: Allene and Carol Petty and Mrs. Nancy Plumb, all of Carmel; Mrs. Mildred Sims, Miss Lois Petty and Mrs. June Hartman, all of Los Angeles; Miss Helen Petty of San Francisco and Mrs. Shirley Wolfe of Sacramento.

Private funeral services were held Saturday.

several of the characters, of both sexes, should speak with a German accent. The play will be presented in October, at the conclusion of the current Saroyan play, The Beautiful People.

Peninsula League Stages Cabaret At Pebble Beach Wed.

Wednesday evening the Monterey Peninsula League will present its Autumn Cabaret at Del Monte Lodge before what promises to be a sellout audience.

The benefit event gets under way with dinner at 8:00 o'clock, to be followed by dancing, a fashion show and a floor show, all with a French accent. Janine Briet Johnston, formerly of Paris, will keynote the affair by singing a number of hit French tunes. Mrs. John A. Clancy will welcome the guests, and Thomson Jay Hudson and Dr. Walter Williams will be masters-of-ceremonies.

A high point of the evening will be the fashion show. League members who will model are Mrs. William Monroe, Mrs. Thomas Hooper, Mrs. Thomson Hudson, Mrs. Fred Stanley, Mrs. John Storm, Mrs. Willard Branson, Mrs. Richard Osborne, Mrs. Colden Whitman, Mrs. William Barthold, Mrs. Margaret Potter Hensel, Mrs. Lawson Little, Jr., Mrs. Hampton Stewart, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. Wells Thompson, Mrs. John Geisen and Mrs. John Clancy.

The original floor show will be under the direction of David Eldridge with music by Don Adams. Ladies of the chorus will include Mrs. Colden Whitman, Mrs. William Monroe, Mrs. John Clancy, Mrs. Willard Branson, Mrs. Edmund von Hasseln, Mrs. Arthur Allen, Mrs. Ruth Holmes, Mrs. Arthur Hateley, Jr., Mrs. Thomson Hudson and Mrs. Robert Stanley. The "Beachcombers" sextet, consisting of Mrs. Ted Fielding, Mrs. Robert Stanley, Mrs. Joseph Johnston, William Monroe, Jack Otterson and Lou Allaire, will sing three songs arranged by Cmdr. Ben Gantz and Lt. Lucian Capone, while John Forbes will sing two songs by Don Adams, who will provide piano accompaniments.

Trial For Workshop Play Set For Sept. 7

Inaugurating the presentation of plays in the Forest Theater Guild Workshop for the fall and winter period, the Forest Theater Guild will stage for two week-ends in October the well known play Escape by John Galsworthy.

Trials for this play will take place on Tuesday, September 7 at 8:00 o'clock. There are many interesting parts (male and female) and actors and actresses and aspirants of the stage are cordially invited to attend.

Already members of the Guild who are able to use the hammer, the saw and the brush, are busy working on the stage in this Little Theater under the big Forest Theater stage. The Workshop has seating capacity of over 70.

The Time Has Come

By Kippy Stuart

I have a joke on people. Birds that flock to my cafeteria will eat any sort of bread that I supply, from pumpnickle right on down to brioche. That is, everything except the so-called human diet bread. Most of the birds take a look-see and pass the diet bread. You should see a bluejay who meets up with this variety! First the bluejay will examine carefully, then slowly go into a rage. He will tear the stuff to pieces, dance upon it and then retreat screaming his head off. This means something-or-other... but just what?

I know of no one so well versed in the care and preservation of cut flowers as Gypsy Coulter. Gypsy gave me a few tips the other day and here they are. To prolong the life of a cut calla, shake a bit of cigarette tobacco into the water and make a slit through the center of each stem.

To prevent arrangements of water lilies from closing their faces, inject alcohol into the end of the stem with an eyedropper. For wisteria: plunge stems in alcohol for ten minutes, then submerge in cold water. Tulips: place stems in very hot water for a few minutes then pop in cold water. Cosmos: place stems in alcohol for three minutes. Transvaal daisies, columbine and hollyhock: dip in peppermint oil (1/4 teaspoonful in glass of water) for four minutes. Peonies and hydrangeas: dip in 5 percent hydrochloric acid (clorox) for four minutes, then into cold water. Easter and tiger lilies: burn stem and put teaspoonful of sugar in water.

Dahlias and oriental poppies: rub salt into end of stem, dip in hot water for three minutes, then cold.

If roses fade, place in deep bowl of water and cut stem under water. This prevents a bubble of air getting into the stem. Place rose stems in hot water for two minutes, then cold.

Bamboo: place stems in boiling vinegar for five minutes, then plunge foliage and stems into cold water for one hour.

Poinsettias: dip stem in boiling water for three minutes—toss in

Trixy Alias Jenny Sweeper Is Now At Home In City Yard

Carmel's new mechanical street sweeper arrived here Tuesday morning at 11:00 o'clock bright and shiny and smelling a lot nicer than mechanical street sweepers generally smell.

It was parked in the city yard and Ed Brewer, a regular employee of the street department, assigned to learn how to run it. The Elgin Company, makers of the sweeper, are providing an instructor.

The machine arrived by rail at Salinas, was trucked to Monterey and driven over to Carmel. It has a grey paint job and cream colored brush. The street department is split about evenly over whether to call it Trixy or Jenny.

Last Chance To See Musical Silver Star This Week End

Final performances of Silver Star, the original western-with-music by Don Adams and Ric Masten, will take place tonight, tomorrow and Sunday at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium.

Silver Star is directed by David Eldridge and features a large singing and dancing cast headed by John Forbes, Joan Sawyer, Dr. Walter Williams, Ruth McElroy, Betty Fowlston, Alex Olivetti and Terry Eby.

The show is sponsored by the Carmel Kiwanis Club, with proceeds from ticket sales going to the Kiwanis Youth Activities Fund.

12 percent hydrochloric acid (clorox) for five minutes — then into cold.

Fuchsias: stand stems in boiling water for five minutes then in cold. Add few drops of peppermint oil in cold water.

This ought to hold us for awhile! The amount of alcohol necessary to revive and preserve our flowers, might be termed, "The Lost Weekend in the Garden!"

Days Of The Dons

PART III

By J. WILLIAM MAC LENNAN

In the days of the Dons, one or more horses were usually hitched before practically every house, for none but Indians walked, even when visiting nearby neighbors. Horses were cheap; a fairly good one could be purchased for two or three dollars, and were freely lent to travelers, even strangers.

Life was not hard for the so-called poor. One could get along with very little clothing—before the missionaries came many of the Indian men preferred to go without any during the summer months—and houses cost very little to build. The soil supplied adobe for the walls; the canyons, saplings to support a roof of reeds gathered in the swamps; and the pits at Carpenteria, La Brea, and other places, asphalt to waterproof them. Rawhide thongs to bind the reeds to the roof poles, and a cowhide to close the door opening were about the only extras necessary in the early days of the settlements; and the Indians would build a house for their food, a few presents such as a piece of cloth for a blouse or a pair of trousers, and a little aguardiente (local brandy), if they could get it. Of course, heavy storms occasionally melted down these houses; but then, it wasn't difficult or costly to build another.

The food was monotonous since the ranchers didn't care to bother with raising a variety of fruits and vegetables, which required enclosed lands; and milk, butter and cheese were scarce as the cattle were half wild and it often took three men to milk a cow, one to milk and two to hold her down. Beef, frijoles, and tortillas were the staple diet. Beef was cheap and abundant. Cattle were valuable chiefly for their hides and tallow. When slaughtered, after removing these and a few choice pieces of meat had been reserved, the carcasses were left for the poor, the coyotes, and the buzzards.

However, life was not easy for the Indian men; for them it was not the Golden Age. Their lands were taken, also their prettiest women; and most of the manual labor devolved upon them. They have disappeared as a race, though some of their descendants can still be found in Monterey, Santa Barbara, Los Angeles, and other places settled by the Spaniards.

In 1846, war broke out between the United States and Mexico, and two years later Upper California, which included the present states of California, Arizona, New Mexico, Nevada, Utah, and parts of others, was ceded to the United States. The Americans quickly took over the newly-acquired territory. Among the 50 delegates to the constitutional convention in Monterey, held the following year (1849), only five were native-born Californians, though they represented half of the population (Indians not counted). Taxes were levied on land, for the Americans needed considerable money to run the government, especially for salaries; and since some of the Spanish and Mexican ranchers seldom had much ready cash, their lands were taken from them and acquired by Americans for little more than the taxes. Practically the first business of the Santa Barbara City Council in 1850 was to sell most of the lands owned by the city, chiefly to themselves.

However, not all the original inhabitants lost their ranches, and some of the Californians were wise enough to marry their daughters to Yankees who knew how to hold on to a penny, and didn't waste money on fandangoes and fiestas. Today, their descendants with such names as Dibblee, Field, Bell, still hold valuable property in California. After the discovery of gold in California and the influx of hordes of immigrants (100,000 in two years), the older inhabitants, who numbered only about 13,000, were submerged and the old customs gradually died out.

STILL SUMMER

*I walk the fields of summer in their prime.
The earth is easy, ripe and sweet
Warm to the tread of weightless feet
The air is fragrant with the fruiting-time.*

*The days are tall, the year is at its height
The shadows short that noon the day
Abundance leafs its green array
As half-translucent windows for the light.*

*I walk the fields of summer where the rose
With loosening petals leans and falls
And mark how time the measure calls
And beauty rounds her season to a close.*

—ELIZABETH BANCROFT.

ONE ELEMENT

*The dew has turned to frost
With you, my summer, fled,
And I, a flower become a flake,
Now hanging, break
Dead,*

*Unthinking that the frost
Could melt to dew again
When the face of a sun you never knew
Persists all through
"Amen,"*

*In seasons seasonless
On a mountain minus soil,
Where icicle and flood are one
Substance—no
Recoil.*

—OTHELIA LILLY.

CLOSED AIRFIELD

*There's a river of blue-grey cloud across the sky.
Ranged blue-grey mountains around,
Small thin wind sweeps the runways clear
And over the night-hung ground
There is no sound of war, nor men,
Nor machinery, not one sound.*

*Only the snipe call eerily,
Only long grass blows grey,
And runway lights, some gold, some blue
Shine dimly after day.
Rushed man and his engines of air have gone,
And only the still things stay.*

*Swirl-sounds of sea waters lift and sway
On glacier wind to sky
On into the higher strata where
The river-bright cloud pours by,
While, over the wasteful works of man,
The petulant pee-sweeps cry.*

—K. R. ARCHER.

See How They Run

By ROSALIND WALL

See How They Run is styled a farce, and farce it is, especially in the second act where everyone is running madly after everyone and no less than four vicars (two of them importers) are on stage at one time along with a bishop in a striped night-shirt, the vicar's bedazed wife, and a drunken (and ordinarily all too proper) old maid. This hilarious offering by the Presidio Players which played Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights, was written by Philip King, and although it was amateurishly done in spots, it was so funny in the stock farcical way that it didn't matter a bit, and one came out with the feeling that everyone, players and audience alike, had had a darned good time.

Although the part of Miss Skillon (Shirley Powers), the old maid who gets drunk on cooking sherry during the course of a shock-ridden evening, was very much over-drawn and one felt it could have been played more effectively straight, Shirley Powers' acting comes through. She obviously has talent and one could wish for a better vehicle or in any case better direction. Ida, the maid, as played by Donnie Freeman, was an improbable but lovably loopy, gawky and really funny character. She might have been better off without the Cockney accent.

Pat Devlin played Penelope Toop, the vicar's wife and star of the show. A talented actress, she seemed more at ease with her lines and more natural in her part than many of the other who displayed, from time to time, a lamentable tendency to exaggerate—no doubt due to direction. Bill Devlin was convincing and, again, very much at ease in his role of Corporal Clive Winton, Mrs. Toop's old acting partner (in those halcyon days before she married the vicar) and Peter Houck was not at all bad as the confused and bedevilled Reverend Lionel Toop who did not know what the heck was going on at his vicarage that night.

We liked Howard Knapp as the Bishop of Lax, Mrs. Toop's uncle, who turned up so very inopportunistically to add to the general melee, and James Barthel as the rather silly and helpless Reverend Arthur Humphrey.

Mark Branstetter played the Spy (Russian in this case, and very fierce and dangerous), and Howard Brown Sergeant Towers, the man who (after much confusion regarding identity cards, husbands, bishops, suits of clothes, uniforms and vicars) finally apprehended him.

The Presidio's Tin Barn, by the way, is quite an amusing place in which to see a play, what with billowing canvasses, ropes and all, and a pervading atmosphere of youthful zest and good spirits and general informality.

Male Animal at Wharf

By KIPPY STUART

Opening night at the Wharf Theatre's production of the Male Animal was a smash hit. The play moved with brisk acceleration right up to the last line spoken, with a happy choice of personnel for each character represented. The Male Animal has a fillip of fun and nonsense, yet underlying this fun is a serious revolt against curbing freedom of speech and freedom of action.

George Gordon, as Tommy Turner, the poor put-upon college professor, turned in a neat performance and has added to his long line of excellent characterizations. Gertrude Chappell, cast as Ellen Turner, added much to the evening. She moved about stage swirling her voluminous skirts in graceful rhythm. During entre act, I asked a friend what he thought of the play. He replied that Elsie Welch, as the maid, and Ralph Slayton, cast as the great reformer, were stealing the show.

Keith Roper and Leon Altneu brought back to all of us memories of the "old grad", who wallops it up at college football games. Jane (Continued on Page Eleven) of Carmel, is scheduled for publication early this fall.

A. Lawrence Kocher's Rare Photo Find To Be Published This Fall

A new book of rare photographs compiled and with text by author-editor-architect A. Lawrence Kocher, brother of Dr. R. A. Kocher

The forthcoming edition consists of reproductions taken from a set of photographic wet plates found by Mr. Kocher during his recent work on the restoration of Williamsburg. The plates, which he discovered in the attic of an old house, yielded a pictorial record of the old south, along with some fine photographs of the Civil War.

Mr. Kocher, who makes his home at Williamsburg, is a member of the American Institute of Architects and chairman of the committee on the preservation of historic monuments and scenery; he has also served as a member of the advisory committee of architects on the restoration of Williamsburg to its original colonial state. He has written and collaborated on several volumes on colonial architecture and has contributed numerous articles to the Architectural Record, of which he was editor for several years. In addition, he has taught architecture at several colleges and universities in the east and south. In 1937, he was the U.S. delegate to the International Congress of Art and Applied Design in Paris.

Peggy Glaser Weds John Winnett

Peggy Glaser and John Winnett, Jr., were married Saturday evening at a candlelight service held in the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. James M. R. Glaser, in Pebble Beach. Only members of the immediate family were present at the service, which was read by the Rev. Bernard Lovgren.

The bride, still on crutches with a broken leg from a recent riding accident, was given in marriage by her father. Her two sisters, Mrs. Hartley C. Dewey of Sacramento and Mrs. Duane L. Cash of Oakland, served as bridal attendants, while Richard Collins of Pebble Beach, a long-time friend of the young couple, was best man.

Peggy's waltz-length gown was fashioned of silk peau de soie with a bouffant skirt, portrait neckline, bracelet sleeves and a molded bodice detailed in cording. Her short veil fell from an heirloom, rose-point lace cap, and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis. Her attendants wore identical princess-styled dresses of pink peau de soie and carried pale yellow tuberous begonias.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding and the reception which followed at the Glaser home were Peggy's two brothers and their wives: the James C. Glasers (Toni Haber), who were married last month in Minneapolis, and the Edward L. Glasers of Poughkeepsie, New York. The groom's grandfather, P. G. Winnett, came up from Los Angeles for the occasion.

The new Mr. and Mrs. Winnett, who will make their temporary home in New York, are each accomplished riders. Peggy, who graduated from Douglas School and attended Mills College, has won equestrienne honors all over the west coast, while John, who last year rode in the World's Championships in Paris, has for the past nine years represented the United States in international horse shows. He is the son of Mrs. Paul Barrelet de Ricou of Paris and brother of Irene Barrelet de Ricou, also of Paris. He was educated in France and attended the Ecole de Saumur (French cavalry school), and during the last war served on General Eisenhower's SHAPE staff.

Birthday for David

Balloons festooned the garden of the Howard Levinson home the other afternoon for an outdoor party celebrating the fourth birthday of the Levinsons' son, David, who invited a batch of his young friends from Blue Jay School and elsewhere to share in the fun. A fine, warm day contributed to the high spirits and hearty appetites of host and guests, who found time between games to stoke in large quantities of birthday cake, ice cream and soda pop.

David's guests were Annette Low, Ricky Strasbruger, Jimmy Hatton, Nancy Cronwell, Brian Cronwell, Jean Hudelson, Bobbie Knoop, Katie Brañon, Richard Oleson, Allison Rand, Robbie Talbot, Johnny Reynolds and Julie Fehring. Invited but unable to attend were Tania and Eric Williams, Dede and Andrea Torras and Michael Whitcomb. Assisting Mrs. Levinson in the arrangements were Mrs. "Sis" Reynolds, and David's grandmother, Mrs. Louis Levinson.

New Duty for Col. Hazeltine

Lt. Col. Charles B. Hazeltine Jr., whose father is Col. C. B. Hazeltine (USA-Ret.) of Carmel, has just been assigned to the office of the Chief of Army Field Forces, Combat Developments Section, at Fort Monroe, Virginia. The colonel formerly served in the office of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington, D.C.

Col. Hazeltine graduated in 1940 from West Point, and served in the China-Burma-India Theater during World War II. He subsequently served as a tactical officer at West Point, later was assigned to the Far East from 1949 to 1951, and finally returned to this country for assignment in the Pentagon.

Col. Hazeltine is married to the former Rebecca H. Holmes of Belfast, Maine; they have three sons, Jack, Timothy and Brian.

Teacher Goes to School

Mrs. George B. Turner returned home this week after a brush-up course in the San Jose State next session. Next week, she'll greet her third grade class at Monterey's Monte Vista School, where she has been teaching since the school first opened.

Charles Edward (Pat) Casey, Jr., and Barbara Layne Brown, daughter of State Attorney General Edmund (Pat) Brown and Mrs. Brown, were married last Saturday afternoon in St. Cecilia's Church in San Francisco.

The groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Casey, Sr., and a large contingent of Pat's Carmel friends and former Carmel High school-mates were on hand for the wedding, which was followed by a large reception at the Olympic Club in Lakeside.

The bride, who graduated last year from the University of California, had her sister, Cynthia, as maid of honor. Her younger sister, Kathleen, served as junior bridesmaid. Completing Barbara's bridal entourage were Mrs. Donald Price, a former schoolmate at Sacred Heart Convent, Mrs. Robert Dallas, a Tri-Delt sorority sister at Cal, and the Misses Mary Gibson, Mary Frazer, and Patricia O'Connor.

Pat's best man was Jess Aguilar, a Sigma Chi fraternity brother at San Jose State College. The ushers, with the exception of the bride's brother, Edmund G. Brown, Jr., were also former Sig brothers from State: David Delehanty, Vincent Malone, Robert Kissick, Walter Mueller and George Gunter.

Following the reception, the couple left for a week's honeymoon in Ojai, and on Monday will move to their new home in Sacramento where Pat is working as an investigator for the Department of Justice.

U.S.O. Musicales

An appreciative audience attended the regular semi-monthly concert at the Monterey U.S.O. last Thursday evening. Soloists were Mrs. Evalyn Loomis, soprano; Mrs. Helen Shutes, violin; and Mrs. Mary Whitmer, piano.

Mrs. Shutes played Largo by Veracini; Divine Dorilla, arranged by A. Moffat, and Canto Amoroso by Sammartini. As encores, she offered Cradle Song by Reger, and Scottish Pastorale by Sanger. Mrs. Loomis sang Shy One by Rebecca Clarke, The Pasture by Naginski, A Nun Takes the Veil by Samuel Barber, and three Gypsy songs by Anton Dvorak. The trio also presented Beau Soir by Debussy, Tes Yeux by Rabey, and Love's Old Sweet Song.

The next U.S.O. musical will be Monday evening at 8:15 o'clock, and will feature Mrs. Margaret Graham, soprano, and Mrs. Mary Whitmer, piano. The public is invited to attend.

Art, Crafts at Town House

Craftsman John Bartlett will present a wood-carving-in-action display at the weekly Town House program at 3:00 o'clock Wednesday. Mr. Bartlett will demonstrate the process of developing a carving from a simple billet of wood, and will show a variety of his finished carvings.

Tuesday afternoon from 3:00 to 4:30 o'clock there will be a tea and reception at Town House for Anita Wainwright, whose exhibit of pastels will hang there through September.

Town House will be closed Monday on account of Labor Day.

Philatelists Note

The meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Stamp Club originally scheduled for Monday has been postponed until September 20, 8:00 o'clock, at Carmel High School, with an auction to be featured.

Sinatra Sings for Newlyweds

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. Willard Whitney was the scene of the wedding Sunday afternoon of two of their close friends, Peggy O'Brien and Henry F. Price, both of whom had lived in Carmel during the war.

Judge Ray Baugh officiated at the simple ceremony, which was witnessed by a number of the couple's local and out-of-town friends. Among the guests were crooner Frank Sinatra, who assisted as an usher and later sang for the newlyweds at the reception, and songwriter Jimmy Van Heusen, who was best man. Sinatra and Van Heusen, both long-time friends of the groom, were guests at the Pine Inn over the weekend.

The bride, who recently returned from a trip abroad, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O'Brien of Los Angeles, who were among those present at the wedding. Her maid of honor was Ann Biehn of Fort Worth, Texas. Mr. Price, who lived here for several years while serving as an airline pilot during World War II, is now Los Angeles representative of Rancho Las Cruces in La Paz, Baja California. His daughter, Sharon Price, was also here for the wedding. Among the local guests were Mr. and Mrs. Don Borden of Carmel and Rose Graxiola, Sal Cerrito and Judge and Mrs. Ray Baugh of Monterey.

Following the reception at the Whitney home, the party adjourned to Gallatin's for a wedding dinner. The new Mr. and Mrs. Price remained in Carmel until yesterday when they left for a honeymoon trip to Mexico City, Acapulco and Las Cruces. They plan to establish their home in Los Angeles.

The Robisons left August 1 on their trip, driving down through Texas and stopping off at Morelia and Guadalajara en route to Mexico City. They also visited friends in Monterrey, and in Morelia were reunited with former Carmelite Agnes Shand, who now makes her home there. Before driving home, the family also visited Taxco and Acapulco.

Campers' Last Fling

Mr. and Mrs. Rod Wilson and their children Nicki and Sherry returned last weekend from nearly a month's camping trip in and around the Canadian Rockies, reporting generally fine weather, wonderful scenery and good company (including bear, moose, deer and elk in addition to fellow campers) wherever they went.

After almost a week at home, the Wilsons are all ready for another round of camping to finish the summer off. This weekend, they and five other local families will collect all their kids, pack up the camping gear and take off for Big Sur for the holiday. Others participating in the event are Mr. and Mrs. Mark Raggett, Mr. and Mrs. Adrian Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Charles McHarry, Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Reid and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Durein, and their respective families. They call themselves the Carmel Camp Club, and have made the Big Sur Labor Day weekend an annual occasion.

Browns Sun Valley Bound

Mr. and Mrs. William B. Brown, plainly delighted at a chance to escape the local Labor Day fold-out, took off Wednesday for a leisurely drive-and-camp trip to Sun Valley. Bill's daughter, Sharon Brown, who's been visiting them here for the past two weeks, accompanied them as far as San Francisco, where she re-enters school next week, then Bill and Carol struck off for the north and east.

The couple planned to head up the Redwood Highway and up the Oregon coast to the Columbia River, follow the spectacular Columbia River Highway east and then loop on down through northern Idaho, where they might stop off for some fishing. They'll arrive in Sun Valley on Wednesday, and Carol will do the sights while Bill, who represents the Prudential Insurance Company in Carmel, attends the three-day Western Business Conference.

The Browns expect to be back around September 15, largely out of concern for their poodle pup who is pining for them in a kennel. The pup was originally slated to accompany them on the trip, but put himself thoroughly in the doghouse the day before the Browns left by partially devouring 75 of Carol's Christmas cards — with envelopes.

A WAY TO CUT LIVING COSTS and SAVE MONEY!

A long established local firm is investigating the idea of group purchasing with the idea of sponsoring a purchasing group in the Monterey Bay area.

Group purchasing provides buying power on which a saving of 20% or more may be made over regular retail costs.

How would you like to purchase new supplies, canned goods, appliances, hardware, paints and some building supplies at greatly reduced cost?

In order to eliminate overhead costs, purchases are made for cash. However, convenient means are available for time payments so that you secure the immediate benefit of cash purchases with the convenience of time payments. Further details are available by mail.

Audubon Society

Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society will hold a business meeting and program at 8:00 o'clock Friday night, September 10. Two field trips are arranged for the month. A tour of the Monterey Peninsula, winding up with lunch at Point Lobos, will be held on September 12. Meeting place is at Fremont Street and Camino El Estero in Monterey at 9:00 o'clock in the morning. On September 27, Monday, the group will meet at the intersection of Highway 1 and Carmel Valley road at 9:00 o'clock for a trip to Big Sur.

New Look in Buchan Family

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Buchan welcomed their first daughter last Thursday at Peninsula Hospital. She's been named Cynthia Marie, weighed eight pounds, three and a half ounces, and measured 21 inches in length—which, apparently, is just right for the new long look for fall. Cynthia also boasts black curly hair and blue eyes, in direct contrast to her five-year-old brother, Jeff, who has flaming red hair and brown eyes.

The baby's maternal grandmother, Mrs. William John Roy of Long Island, flew out from New York for the event and plans to remain here for a visit for the next few weeks. Mrs. Ralph K. Buchan, the paternal grandmother, also arrived this week to meet Cynthia and visit the Buchans.

Carmel Schools Start Tuesday

(Continued from Page One) class in creative writing which students may take in lieu of English. Other new classes are dramatics, under Mrs. Mariquita Brey, and home economics, which will be given in three sections: two periods for elementary school students, under Mrs. Ruth Cook, and one for high school students, under Mrs. Ellen Jane Down. The elementary students will be transported to and from the high school by special bus.

Sunset School will be busier than ever this year, since it has taken over the third and fourth grades from River School and the fourth grade from Woods, in addition to grades five through eight. The school buildings and rooms have been gussied up considerably during the summer: new face in the corridors, new incinerator smoke stack, new flagpole, new science room and equipment. In addition, three more rooms have been repainted and relighted to correspond to the "model" Room 5 remodeled and redecorated by the Lions Club last year.

Three new teachers are at Sunset this year. Mrs. Alan Koch, who will teach fourth grade, comes here from Santa Paula, where she taught fourth last year. She received her B.A. from Occidental in 1953. Mrs. Donald Whyte will teach fifth grade; a graduate of Mills College, this will be her first year of teaching. New art teacher is Joseph Broadman, who took his A.B. from University of Oklahoma in 1950 and his M.F.A. this year. He taught arts and crafts to grades seven and eight in Merced during 1951-52.

Sunset will also offer home economics classes to seventh and eighth grade girls for the first time in many years, with cooking operations to take place at the high school each morning from 8:30 to 10:00 o'clock.

Woods and River schools will again share the services of one principal, Mrs. Marjorie McCausland. Woods, with kindergarten through third grade, has an estimated 170 enrolled to date, but expects more around October 1 when the new service contingent moves in. New to Woods' faculty this year is Mrs. Lucy Foster of Carmel, who will take over Mrs. Elizabeth McCrae's second grade section. Mrs. Foster transferred from the Monterey district, having previously taught at Noche Buena School.

River School, with only kindergarten and first and second grades, will nevertheless have a larger enrollment than it did last year with kindergarten through fourth, thanks to this year's bumper crop of kindergarten and primary grade youngsters. Estimated enrollment is 135, as compared to just over 100 last year for all four grades. Joining River's small teaching staff this year is Miss Vivian Denistoun, a recent graduate of Occidental College, who will teach first grade.

Bay School has by request regained its fourth grade. Last year's "graduating" third graders were so persuasive that it was decided to let them stay on at the little school for another year. Bay's mentor, Mrs. Thelma Stohr, says she expects around 15 pupils in all, and maybe even a few more.

Adult School evening classes don't get under way until September 13, but pre-registration will be taken at the Sunset School office each week night until then from 7:00 to 9:30 o'clock. Program and schedules of Adult School classes will be in the mail sometime next week, according to Chuck Dawson, principal.

Maud M. DeYoe

Mrs. Maud May DeYoe, a Carmel resident for over 40 years, died Tuesday at her home on Upper Trail Road. She was 76.

She was born September 31, 1877, in Independence, California, attended school in San Jose and later moved with her family to San Francisco. Following the earthquake and fire of 1906, the family moved to Oakland and finally to Carmel, where she met Ray Condon DeYoe. They were married here in 1913 at the home of Mr. DeYoe's mother, Mrs. Rosa DeYoe, who until her death in 1942 was active in community affairs and owned much property here.

Mr. DeYoe, who died in 1933, also owned and managed a good deal of property in Carmel, and founded the Carmel Realty and Insurance Co. Following his death and that of his mother, the properties were administered by Mrs. DeYoe. Until the time of her death, Mrs. DeYoe contributed generously to numerous charities and institutions, among them the Carmel Art Association, and maintained an active interest in civic and cultural affairs. She was a long-time member of the Carmel Woman's Club, and attended the Church of the Wayfarer.

Mrs. DeYoe leaves a son, Robert La Rue DeYoe of Carmel, and a niece, Marian W. Suppo of Larkspur.

Private funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Paul Mortuary, with Dr. K. Fillmore Gray officiating.

Mental Health Conference At Asilomar Sept. 10

Education — The Three R's — Rote, Rant, Reason, has been selected as the theme for the Mental Health weekend conference which will be held at Asilomar, Pacific Grove, September 10-12, 1954. This will be the eighth of a series on the general topic The Society of Our Times.

Dr. Brock Chisholm, the former Director-General of the World Health Organization and President of the National Commission for Mental Hygiene of Canada, will give the principal address.

As in previous conferences, a full program has been planned, consisting of talks and platform panel discussions by various authorities in the fields of Education and of Mental Health.

The general public is invited to attend and to join in the informally conducted discussion groups which have proved very popular at similar conferences in the past.

A bid for the participation of teen-agers is being made this time. Special youth groups and program activities for young people have been arranged.

For further particulars, programs, and reservation forms, please get in touch with the Mental Health Society of Northern California, 2015 Steiner, San Francisco 15. Phone is Walnut 1-7953.

Male Animal At Wharf Theater

McGowan, as the young sister, was the eye-appeal of the evening. I have never seen Jane act before and I must say that she produces fire with one stamp of her foot when fire is indicated. Nick LeFeuvre and Florence Keaton as Dean and Mrs. Damon, brought the comedy touch to the evening. Nick is famous for his droll performances, and in The Male Animal he was a "natural". Glen Nielsen, as the young college boy, trying to wrest Jane away from his rival, looked the part of the football hero. Bill Hamamoto had a small part, and Bill certainly made his few lines count.

The new foyer of the Wharf Theater is a great addition to the theater. Hanging upon the walls of the foyer are paintings of our local artists, with excellent lighting supervised by Walt Scott. Thomas Brock and Robert Carson are to be congratulated on the excellence of The Male Animal. The stage setting of just any college professor's living room was executed with skill and an eye to simple detail. On opening night, the consensus of opinions was that The Male Animal is yet another triumph for the directors of the Wharf.

Two Carmel Houses In Sunset Magazine

Portions of two Carmel houses designed by Hugh Comstock Associates are featured in the September issue of Sunset Magazine.

One article deals with the unique plant room which opens off the breakfast room in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Orville B. Jones at Junipero and Twelfth. Another Sunset piece shows interiors of the large redwood, adobe and brick home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Arnot on Carmelo and Scenic Drive, which features a kitchen-living room arrangement in addition to a formal living room.

Both articles are illustrated with photographs by Morley Baer, former Carmelite now living in Berkeley.

RACE COURSE HELD UP

Construction of a proposed auto race course on the Edison Holt Ranch in Carmel Valley has been temporarily postponed by the County Board of Supervisors, who Wednesday decided to return to the planning commission an interim zoning ordinance which would restrict all development in the valley to agricultural or residential for the next six months. Mayor Lyon Reminds Voters To Register Citizens have until September 9 to register to vote in the November general election. Mayor Horace Lyon urges them to do so if they are not already registered.

"The right to vote is one of the greatest privileges of the American citizenship. It is the responsibility of every citizen to register for the privilege of voting," the Mayor says. And he has proclaimed September 1 to 7 Registration of Voters Week.

Carmel Republican Women are cooperating by putting up a tent on Dolores Street where one can register on the way to the Post Office. To qualify for registration for voting one must be over 21 years old, have lived in California for one year, in the county for 90 days and in a voting precinct for 54 days, and be a citizen. A voter who has changed his residence or failed to vote in the primary or general election of 1952, must register again to be able to vote in the coming general election.

ordered work on the track held up until the planning commission has further discussed the controversial ordinance.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON
The ability, power, and sinless perfection which characterize man's real nature in God's likeness will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Lesson-Sermon entitled "Man" includes the following passages from the King James Version of the Bible (Ephesians 4:7, 13):

"But unto every one of us is given grace according to the measure of the gift of Christ. . . . Till we all come in the unity of the faith, and of the knowledge of the Son of God, unto a perfect man, unto the measure of the stature of the fulness of Christ."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy the following passage will be among those read (258:21): "The human capacities are enlarged and perfected in proportion as humanity gains the true conception of man and God."

The Golden Text is from Genesis (1:27): "God created man in his own image, in the image of God created he him."

Stillwater Yacht Club will also give a cocktail party for the visiting skippers and their crews Sunday evening at 6:00 o'clock at the Matt Jenkins place in Pebble Beach.

Aimee Calley

Mrs. Aimee P. Calley, mother of Ernest Calley of Carmel, died August 27 in Oakland.

A native of England, Mrs. Calley came to this country in 1888 and had lived in California ever since. She frequently visited in Carmel, and at one time made her home here for a short time. Her husband, the late Henry C. Calley, died in 1941.

Funeral services were held Sunday in Piedmont.

CHEST CAMPAIGN PLANS

October 4 will be kick-off day for the final fund drive of the 1954 Community Chest campaign. The announcement was made by Mrs. G. W. Whitting, who presided at a meeting last week of Chest officials and campaign chairman representing Carmel, the Highlands, Carmel Valley, Pebble Beach and the Country Club.

Mrs. Whitting suggested that more emphasis in the campaign be placed on asking contributors to pledge monthly or bi-monthly donations. Captain Archer Allen, Community Chest president, stressed the point that the Chest is a local organization supporting 19 local agencies, among them the Well Baby Clinic, the Carmel Youth Center, Family Service, the Visiting Nurse Association, Travelers' Aid and the Valley Youth Center.

Taking part in the meeting, in addition to Capt. Allen and Mrs. Whitting, were campaign chairman Durbin Sayers, J. C. Smith, Mrs. Louise Gribben, Mrs. Alfred Balsam, Frank Elton, Gen. E. J. Dawley, Gerald Keith and Wesley Kergan.

Ronald Wilson's Retirement As Park Supervisor Of Point Lobos Is Source Of Widespread Regret

The announcement of the retirement on October 1 of Ronald A. Wilson, Park Supervisor at Point Lobos for over 22 years, has occasioned general regret among his numberless friends, here in Monterey County and throughout the state.

They will express their appreciation of him and his work at a reception honoring him and Mrs. Wilson on Wednesday evening, September 22 at Stevenson House in Monterey from 8:00 to 11:00 o'clock.

In a letter to the Pine Cone, C. M. Goethe of Sacramento writes: "Just as mankind is awakened to the value of the gifted child, so is coming awareness that retirement chronologically means wasting valuable talent of those not actually aged."

"In September, a devoted State Park's Chief Ranger retires. Ronald Wilson was called to that command when the Save-the-Redwoods League bought and gave to California that priceless asset, Point Lobos Reserve State Park. Mr. Wilson understood clearly why Dr. Grinnell and Dr. Linsdale planned that Point Lobos uniquely should be a reserve State Park.

"Because Point Lobos intelligently is maintained as a real wilderness biologically, this writer, over the years, has spent a half month in the Park on field work. Thus came daily contact with one of California's most devoted officials. Always he was the kindly teacher in giving others a glimpse of his accumulated Point Lobos knowledge. Once I watched him conduct a group of children to where he knew the red-stockinged oystercatchers would be feeding.

"Mr. Wilson had painting as an avocation as early as did Sir Winston Churchill. For a quarter century he has been working on Point Lobos' flora. His selflessness is shown in his making available all this material, without any compensation, for the coming State Park's Point Lobos wildflower booklet. This is pioneering the way for Chief Newton Drury's duplicating, in California State Parks, the series published while he was National Parks Director."

Carmel Women Win Firsts At The Fair

Carmel women did well for themselves at the Monterey County Fair, earning blue ribbons in various divisions of the home economics show.

Conspicuous among the winners was Mrs. William L. Askew, Sr., who not only won five blue ribbons for her crochet and embroidery work (for pot holders, booties, a baby set, a shirt and a short coat), but also placed third in the sweepstakes in the clothing and textile division.

Mrs. Beulah Scott was awarded the special preserve bonus prize for the best preserves in the fair, with firsts for apricot and cherry preserves and firsts in all marmalade classes. She took four blue ribbons and a special prize for canned vegetables.

Other first prizes in the food show went to Carmelites Arline Bannerman, children's cakes; Doris Bones, divinity candy; Mrs. Lawrence Leidig, wholewheat bread; and Jennie Walter, cinnamon rolls. In the needlework division Mrs. Elizabeth Mayer took a first for embroidered pictures; Mrs. Marie Muscutt was awarded a blue ribbon for her jumper; and Elizabeth Turnquist was awarded first for a baby set.

In the flower show, Mrs. Gypsy Coulter of Carmel took two first awards, one in flower arranging and another for best corsage. (For more about Mrs. Coulter, see Kippy Stuart's garden column, this issue.)

Wilson's Retirement Loss To Students Of Native Flora

By Kippy Stuart

Through the years Mr. Wilson has been my guide and councillor and has taught me more about wild life and natural flora, than all the books in the library. Besides being a distinguished naturalist, Mr. Wilson is also an artist, who has spent his years at Point Lobos compiling an illustrated history of flora in that locale.

In his new book, Flowers of Point Lobos, just out, Mr. Wilson has made a valuable record of his years of research. Flowers of Point Lobos contains twelve color plates of familiar wild flora and the text reads like a novel. All nature lovers will welcome this volume.

Mr. Wilson has represented the Division of Beaches and Parks for the Department of Natural Resources for 22 years. He leaves at Point Lobos a tradition of courtesy and friendliness that will long be remembered.

Two-Bits Was Popular Legal Tender . . .

dents may have had or may still have a grandfather who was one of those pioneers who first looked upon this land when it was still unspoiled by man. Get him to tell you all the details. How did they get water? What did they do for amusements? What became of the Indians who populated this area?

There was but one telephone line in Carmel when I first came here and that was in the office of the Carmel Development Company. Outsiders wanting to get in touch with any sojourners here would phone to the Development Company and Devvy's flivver would gallop down to the house and deliver the message. Later when a half-dozen of the merchants' installed phones, Fred Wermuth would take calls and would send you word that you were wanted on the telephone. At first he did not ask anything for his trouble but when it became a real nuisance, he would ask a quarter. Two-bits was a very popular legal tender in those days. Two-bits to ride in the stage from Monterey station and to be delivered any place in Carmel that you wished. And being extra for baggage. The Leidigs advertised on their sidewalk bulletin board: "Three cans of Carnation milk for two-bits", and that amount would pay for a full-course meal at any restaurant.

When the residences began to have phones the lines were drawn more sharply. If you had a phone you were considered settled, more genteel, possibly better off financially than those who had no phones. It was probably the first mark of a Carmel aristocracy.

A great sport in the early days was to go "musseling." We'd watch the Pine Cone for the low tides and a group of us would organize for the occasion and the women would prepare the "vittles." We expected to get loads of mussels so the balance of the fare was skimpy. Down to the beach we went, sometimes at the cliffs below Carmel Point, other times further down the coast. The low tide would expose large families of mussels clinging to the rocks. The men would wear bathing suits or would roll their trousers above the knees and provided with some sort of a metal bar would wade in and pry the toothsome mussels from the rocks.

Meanwhile we gals would build a big driftwood fire, set a large pot containing a small amount of water to boil and when the men folks brought in their crop, the mussels were dumped into the pot. When they steamed for awhile they opened up. Then we gathered around the fire took the mussels by their whiskers, dipped them in melted butter and gulped them down. Ugh!!! They were usually mixed with sand and we paid no attention to the season. Many of us were probably poisoned but we didn't know it, and never felt any after effects. That's what it meant to be young, gay, nonsensical and free from fear. When we couldn't eat any more we would sit around close to the fire and tell stories, play games and watch the moon come up.

If you came here in the early days of this century and never sauntered up to the village from the vicinity of Carmel Point you have missed a delightful experience. Those were the days before automobiles excepting for Devvy's flivver which bumped along gleefully and made noises like a clucking hen. I can't remember that there were other cars around here but there might have been a half-dozen.

Such a trip was always full of adventure. Should one take this trail on that one? The streets had been named but they were dimly outlined. They just wanted to lead us ultimately to the village and didn't mind winding around groups of oaks and pines to get there. We followed the trails instead of the roads. One would be across lots and through tangled manzanita. Here it wandered around a wild lilac in full bloom and at times it veered a bit to catch a breathtaking glimpse of wild iris. Some one had first wandered this way and then another had followed in his steps so a path was discerned and thus became a trail.

You passed only a half-dozen houses on that trip and they were unostentatious and nestled among the trees and gave you pleasant thoughts of human beings who lived in them. One of them was the house that was haunted and it gave you delicious shudders when you passed by. If your trip was at night the little rays of light from the candles or kerosene lamps in the windows added to the magic of the setting.

You might meet someone going in the opposite direction. You would each smile and pass the time of day before you could say:

"Are you lately come here?" And the two of you might find a log or a couple of rocks to sit on and before long each of you would discover a friend.

Oh Carmel, what have we done to you!
